A Berry Good Harvest

Local Cranberry Growers End a Fruitful Year

Fall in New England is one of the best times of the year as the cooler, more comfortable weather breaks in and relieves everyone from the somewhat sultry, sticky humidity of late August. Early-bird Halloween fans have already begun decking their houses with jack-o-lanterns, fresh fallen leaves silently whisk across the back roads of suburban settlements, and local cranberry growers begin reaping the fruits of their labor — these fruits being the rich, crimson-colored berries which will soon grace holiday tables throughout the country in a variety of forms.

Earlier this week as a powerful wind blew across their bogs along Mary's Pond Road, several workers of the Decas Cranberry Company in Rochester were busy "dry picking" the fresh cranberries which have become something of a staple crop in southeastern Massachusetts. Using gas-powered, single-person-operated machines which resemble snow blowers, the bog workers gathered the ripe, red berries into burlap sacks which would later be trucked back to the company's plant to be sorted and packaged for distribution.

Although the lack of rain this summer has made the berries somewhat smaller than last year's crop, they are still rich in color and remain succulent.

"Some of the bogs are producing the same as last year, but others are producing less," said Georgia Chamberlain, President of the Decas Cranberry Company. "The lack of rain has forced many growers to dry harvest this year ... which can be difficult because the bogs are used to being harvested a certain way."

Much like the way a person's hair settles into one coiffure or wood is easier to cut with the grain, the vines of a cranberry bog will tend to grow and fall in one direction. If harvesters are forced to pick the berries by some other means, it makes the process a little more difficult.

"As a cranberry grower, you are very much a hostage to nature," Ms. Chamberlain said. "Water is so important in maintaining a good crop. We were fortunate last year to have an early spring, which gave us a terrific season. This year, it's the consensus of all growers that we're not going to do as well."

Despite the decreased size of the berries this season, however, cranberry growers in the area are still quite pleased with the quality of this year's crop.

"We have definitely seen an increase in business over the last few years," said Decas Farms' Plant Manager Bob Balzarini. "There seems to be more dry-picked (cranberries) this year ... even though we're down a little in quantity, there's no question about the quality of the fruit this year."

Indeed, during a recent tour of the Decas Plant on Mary's Pond Road, the rich color of the fresh cranberries was tempting as they tumbled through a series of screening machines and went through a battery of hand-picking workers. In the dry picking process, the berries need to be sorted from the unwanted chaff, leaves and loose vines which are picked up in the harvesting process. Some of the smaller and partially unripened berries are also discarded before being packaged for shipment to supermarkets and fruit retailers.

The Decas Cranberry Company — along with Ocean Spray and the Northlund Company of Wisconsin — is one of the few which supplies their product directly to markets. Packaged under the Paradise Meadow label, the company's small packing plant is capable of producing 52 bags of fresh berries a minute and during this peak season will ship out an average of 1,000 cases a day of produce.

"We pack and ship everything in lots," Mr. Balzarini said. "So we deal only with one person's order at a time. This way each supply is of a consistent quality."

Though wet picking is the more common method for harvesting cranberries — a process by which the bog is flooded with water and the berries float to the surface where they are conveniently scooped up — these berries do not have a long shelf life and are usually either quick frozen or relegated for use as juice or sauce. The swollen wet-picked cranberries, however, are very appealing to both growers and retailers as they tend to be more juicy and yield more product.

"(Growers) like the water to swell the berries," said Ms. Chamberlain. "This way they yield a greater volume of fruit and can be used for sauces and juices. They also freeze very well and will keep for a long time when frozen."

Early estimates from the Cape Cod Cranberry Growers' Association predicted that the 1993 crop would yield some 1.9 million barrels of berries — just a little over last year's final tally of 1.8 million. With harvest time now in full swing, it looks as though the final total may fall a little short of that estimate.

Even if this year's crop matches last year, it will still be good news for the just over 500 growers in the state which produce 42 percent of the world's total cranberry supply. And although a good 80 percent of the cranberry growers throughout the state are direct suppliers to the Ocean Spray Company in Middleboro, there are still a good number of independent and small farmers out there earning a living. What's even more impressive is that some of these smaller cranberry farmers in southeastern Massachusetts work on less than 20 acres of bog land, according to Jeff Lafleur, Communications Manager for the Cape Cod Cranberry Growers' Association.

Every fall from Labor Day through the end of October, cranberry growers in and around southeastern Massachusetts work diligently to harvest their annual crop of produce. Though not every year can be considered a success — especially being at the mercy of the always-unstable New England weather — in most cases the growers can be pleased that they have in some way contributed to the fresh produce and homemade juices and sauces that will be served for the upcoming holiday season.

"We're working to get our shipments out for the Canadian Thanksgiving holiday," said Mr.

Gail's Country Cottage.

• Letter from Archibald Lammey, Chairman of the Friends of the Mattapoisett Town Band, submitting the amount of $5,505 as the figure raised by the committee to date. Chairman Lammey further stated that the Friends felt strongly that the time has now come for the town to reassume responsibility for financing the costs of the concerts.

Chairman Lammey also addressed the fact that the Friends urged more attention be given to the management of the band, choice of music performed, and the manner in which the director handles his responsibilities. Chairman DeCosta will speak with the Finance Committee to develop a budget and will send a thank you note in appreciation of the Friends' efforts in times of financial cutbacks for the town. Mr. Mahoney also suggested appointing a member of the Finance Committee, and others knowledgeable of the recent finance changes and state funding.

The board briefly discussed that Water Superintendent William Nicholson's dive team is inspecting the water tanks on North Street currently closed to water circulation. The water has been re-routed for the residences of North Street.

Registry of Deeds and Notice of Taking forms have been provided to the board for their files. This property will be used to set up a fourth lagoon behind the former town dump close to the Mattapoisett town line. Some of the property was taken by eminent domain and the rest was purchased through monies allocated at the Annual Town Meeting.

The board then unanimously voted to approve the taking of this property for town use in order to expand their Wastewater Treatment Facility.

Executive Secretary Ray E. Pickles next submitted a memo to the board and all department heads reminding them that the time to begin the town's annual budget process is upon them. All Capital Budget requests must be submitted to Mr. Pickles by December 1. All Operating Budget requests must be submitted to Mr. Pickles by December 16. Capital Budgets are to project for the next three fiscal years.

The Board of Fire Engineers next sent a memo to the board asking their permission to declare the old Fire Chief's car as surplus in order to salvage it. The vehicle has been deemed unworthy of use and the Fire Chief would like to remove parts of it to be used on his new car and dispose of the remainder. The Board of Selectmen unanimously voted to declare the vehicle as surplus and allow it to be salvaged after being stripped for parts.

Chairman Dougall then discussed an outstanding water bill for the Marion Sports Shop as requested by Mr. Pickles. According to Mr. Pickles, there has been a disputed water bill with the establishment since June of 1987. The board briefly discussed the matter last May, but no action was taken.

Mr. Pickles noted that when the establishment first disputed their bill due to a leak within the building, the Water Department replaced their meter and did accuracy tests to determine that it was working properly. At the present time, there's no doubt that the water passed through the meter.

The current balance of the disputed bill is $2,419.89, including interest. Since the owner discussed this matter with the Water Department in May, Mr. Pickles suggested that the board vote to concur with the Water Department that the service was provided to the establishment and they should abate the interest from last May through October 5, which would amount to $156.62. The board unanimously voted to follow Mr. Pickles' suggestion and agreed to send a certified letter to the owner advising him of their decision and giving him until October 18 to pay the delinquent bill. If the bill is not paid by that date, interest will again accrue on the outstanding balance.

The board then briefly discussed increasing the fees for the various inspectors who work for the town. Mr. Pickles noted that their current fee structure is below what area towns charge for inspections. Most inspectors currently get $12 for each inspection. Mr. Pickles has suggested increasing their fees to $13 if they use a town-owned vehicle to travel to the inspection site, and $15 if they use their own vehicle. The Board of Selectmen unanimously approved the increases as recommended.

Chairman Dougall noted that there is still a problem with the clear marking of house numbers throughout town and there was an incident last week on Mill Street where the emergency vehicle could not locate the house. As part of the town's newly-revised E-911 system, all house numbers should be clearly visible from the main access road so that emergency vehicles (fire, police, ambulance) can locate the address.

At 7:30 pm Superintendent of Schools Joan M. Walsh came before the board and members of the School Committee and Finance Committee to discuss the recently-passed Education Reform Act of 1993. FinCom Chairman Carl Ribeiro said he asked Ms. Walsh to come in and make the presentation in order to explain the somewhat confusing new laws governing school systems throughout the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Ms. Walsh then went over the various

Rochester Selectmen's Meeting

October 4, 1993

A regular meeting of the Rochester Board of Selectmen was called to order on Monday, October 4 at 7:00 pm by Chairwoman Lorraine Roy Hawkes. Also present were Selectman David L. Hughes, Selectman Michael Murphy and Administrative Secretary Shirley A. Ferreira.

Before beginning regular business for the evening, Chairwoman Hawkes asked for a moment of silence in memory of William D. Watling and Delma Jacques, two well-known town residents who passed away over the previous weekend. The board then unanimously voted to approve the minutes of their September 27 meeting as submitted.

Under incoming correspondence for the week, Chairwoman Hawkes cited a letter from Robert Peters of Quaker Lane inquiring about a request he made to the Board of Selectmen nearly a year ago. Mr. Peters had asked whether the act to incorporate the town of Marion — passed by the state legislature in May of 1852 — granted residents of Rochester water rights in Marion harbor. The board at that time told Mr. Peters his question would be referred to the state Attorney General for interpretation. To date, no response was given.

drafted and sent to Attorney General Scott Harshbarger inquiring about this legislative act and also asked that a letter be sent to Mr. Peters advising him that no action had yet been taken and an answer would be forthcoming.

The Massachusetts Municipal Association (MMA) sent information to the board regarding the 1994 Recycling and Composting Equipment Grant Program and notification of the Department of Environmental Protection's (DEP) proposal to revise the regulations governing the Groundwater Discharge Permit Program. Both were put on file for future reference.

The state Department of Employment and Training sent notification to the board that recent legislation passed will reduce the necessity of employer's filing excessive amounts of paperwork in the future. Beginning this month (October), the DET will access quarterly wage data as reported to the Department of Revenue, eliminating the need to send the department wage information that has already been provided to the DET. Chairwoman Hawkes noted this would only pertain to the last four quarters of the town's records on file.

Copies of the Massachusetts Department of Revenue's forms regarding Educational Reform for Local and Regional aid were sent to the board and forwarded to the Town Accountant, Town Treasurer

Chief Dispatcher Scott Ashworth submitted a recommendation to the board to appoint Kimberly Eldridge of Hartley Road as a part-time dispatcher with the police and fire departments to replace Kathryn O'Brien who recently resigned. Mr. Ashworth noted the position would have no set hours and would be essentially be a fill in position to replace full-time dispatchers who take time off. Ms. Eldridge also agreed to train for the job on her own time.

Chairwoman Hawkes asked if Ms. Eldridge could come in and meet the board before they make their decision on whether to appoint her. Although her husband, Highway Surveyor Jeff Eldridge, attempted to contact her to join them that night, she was unable to attend. She will be scheduled to come in next week (October 12) and meet them.

Ms. Hawkes noted that Great Bear Farms, Inc. submitted their pass book and the board could finalize and sign their Earth Removal Permit as agreed at the September 20 meeting. Date coded photos were also made available to the board showing the existing condition of Dexter's Lane. Chairwoman Hawkes asked that Mr. Rezendes of Great Bear Farms be advised to come in and sign the photos in the event that any damage is incurred to Town Accountant Claudette Coutu sent a memo to the board regarding part-time town employees. Ms. Coutu noted that these positions would be treated as contracted employees whereby taxes will only be deducted if the person exceeds the $6,000 minimum per year.

Under notices for the week, Chairwoman Hawkes cited a meeting of the Joint Transportation and Planning Group to be held on Wednesday, October 6 at 2:00 pm in the group's offices at 88 Broadway in Taunton. A letter was sent to the board from Town Counsel Kopelman and Paige, P.C. regarding a request from Building Inspector Robert Francis as to whether the portable sawmill in use by Donald Bock of Stuart Road would be allowable under the town by-laws for agricultural purposes. Neighbors have complained about the noise from the sawmill and Mr. Francis asked to seek legal counsel in the matter.

According to Town Counsel Judith C. Cutler, the sawmill operation as described is a manufacturing use and would not be exempt for agricultural use. Other factors including the portability of the sawmill unit also do not alter the zoning status of the operation. Essentially, Ms. Cutler noted that since the unit is essentially used for manufacturing purposes, it would not qualify for a special permit in its present agricultural/residential district.

In Ms. Cutler's final estimation, the sawmill being used by Mr. Bock is a commercial activity and would not be allowable under the town's existing by-laws governing agricultural activity.

There being no further matters to come before the board, they adjourned for the evening at 7:15 pm.

There are few comedies produced today which can achieve their main objective — to make an audience laugh with wit and the intelligence of sending up human nature. Therefore, it's refreshing to find a film that can both be successful at making us laugh and revealing a little more about ourselves than we perhaps care to learn within a 90-minute frame of reference.

This is exactly what Groundhog Day does, all the while poking fun at what some might term the doldrums of human existence. Bill Murray is in fine form as weatherman Phil Connors, a hapless live-by-the-seat-of-his-pants cynic who finds life so utterly disinteresting that he oozes self-pity. Working as a meteorologist in Pennsylvania, he is assigned to cover "the big story" every February 2: to see if "Puksatawny Phil" — better known to the rest of the world as the ubiquitous "groundhog" — will witness his own shadow, thereby feeding fuel to the ancient adage that we will experience an "early spring."

Only this time, Phil (the weatherman, not the groundhog) finds himself caught up in the same situation he so loathes ... day, after day, after day.

You see, he keeps waking up on the same day: February 2, in the same place, at the same time.

And he has no choice but to "go through the motions" to make it to yet a repeat of the same day. Again.

The comic possibilities are endless, and so are the chances for Murray to play up on the point that although everyone else is frozen into the same postures and reactions, he can assimilate knowledge from day to day and, effectively, learn about everyone in town — intimately. It's a social commentary on a grand scale and slides in its hidden message before you even know what hits you.

But first and foremost, it is a comedy, and a terrific one at that. Murray is wonderful as both the snide, cynical Connors at the beginning of the film, and the weary, defeated Connors who concedes that living the same day over and over can take its toll. Nobody does that fine mixture of sarcasm and humor as well as Bill Murray, and many times his facial expressions speak volumes.

Director Harold Ramis, Murray's geeky buddy in Ghostbusters, keeps the tempo perfectly paced throughout. As the film progresses the repetition of each successive day plays like a series of out takes, each with a slightly different outcome. Surprisingly, however, the repetition never becomes boring, because Ramis keeps the action moving and the audience anticipates these subtle alterations in Murray's otherwise carbon copy day.

Andie MacDowell plays well off of Murray's character, keeping her distance from the venom-spewing weatherman until she gradually learns to trust and, eventually, love him. She never seems forced into the relationship, rather lulled into it. Superb supporting roles are also handed in from the always-hilarious Chris Elliot as a jaded TV cameraman and Murray's older brother, Brian Doyle-Murray, as the proud mayor of Puksatawny.

Last, but not least, "Phil" the groundhog also romps through a hilarious scene where Murray kidnaps him and attempts to kill them both by driving off a cliff. (Murray succeeds, but of course he wakes up the next day alive and well in his bed.)

Groundhog Day is one of those rare little comedies that comes along and seems so simple in its scope, yet so encompassing in its achievement. It warrants at least two viewings, just to allow both the humor and the telling truth about the folly of day-to-day life to wash over you. Let it seep in, and enjoy the ride!

Mattapoisett Residents Are Cautioned About Water

Although there has been no boil order put into effect, Water Superintendent William T. Nicholson has advised Mattapoisett residents that they may want to consider boiling their water or using bottled water as very low counts (1 to 2 parts per 100 milliliters) of fecal coliform bacteria have been detected in the town's water supply. Though the levels are very low and the situation isn't anywhere near what it was at this time last year, Mr. Nicholson said the source has been determined to be the same — the North Street water tower.

"The counts are very low and have also been very sporadic," he said. "We'll continue to monitor it with special tests to make sure it doesn't escalate."

In the meantime, residents are advised to use their own discretion in determining whether or not to follow the boiling/bottled precautionary measures.

you are interested in adopting her, you must provide proper identification and references and have the dog spayed — all terms which must be validated with a signed contract. If interested, please call Liz at 763-4508.

Also, a FREE kitten is available to anyone who would provide it with a good home. The newborn kitten was found in a paper sack along the side of the road with its sibling. The smaller kitten has died. This adorable black and white kitten has been bottle-fed by hand and is very loving. This approximately 9-week-old male is already housebroken and likes to be held and stroked. Although the woman who found him would love to keep him, she is very allergic to cats and would like to see this little fighter placed in a good home. Call 763-3348 if you're interested. A supply of food and litter are included.

Veterans' Health Care Benefits

The Veterans Service Office for Mattapoisett and Rochester received a correspondence from Rep. Barney Frank's office which was sent from Jesse Brown, Secretary of Veterans Affairs in Washington. President Clinton's proposal for National Health Care Reform makes possible major improvements in health care services for America's veterans. His plan, which has received a very warm welcome from veterans organizations, will preserve the VA health care system and help it overcome the major difficulties and constraints it is currently facing. The President also proposes to enable all veterans to choose VA as their provider.

For a copy of the brochure which provides an overview of how the President's proposal for National Health Care Reform will impact veterans, contact the Veterans Services for Mattapoisett/ Rochester at 758-4114 between the hours of 8:30 am and 12:00 noon or Congressman Barney Frank's office at 999-6450.

Tri-County Symphonic Band

The Tri-County Symphonic Band will open its 32nd concert series on Sunday, October 24 at 3:00 pm at the Tabor Academy Performing Arts Center in Marion with a pre-Halloween concert, "A Hauntin' We Will Go," under the direction of George A. Dietzler.

The opening number, "March Invictus," by Karl L. King will be followed by the popular "Danse Macabre" by C. Saint-Saens, "Deserted Ballroom" by Morton Gould, and "Allerseelen (All Souls)" by Richard Strauss. The next two numbers are sure to please the youngsters in the audience: "Addams Family Theme" and selections from "E.T." by John Williams.

Following intermission, the eerie theme will be continued with selections from Andrew Lloyd Webber's "The Phantom of the Opera," Edouard Holst's "Dance of the Demons," and "Ballet Music from 'Faust'" by Charles Gounod.

To add to the holiday theme, band members will wear costumes, and the audience may wish to wear them as well, especially the children.

Tickets are $8 for adults and $4 for students and they are available at the Symphony Music Shop, 94 State Road (Route 6) in North Dartmouth; the Shawmut Diner, 943 Shawmut Avenue in New Bedford; The Bookstall, 151 Front Street in Marion; and at the door the day of the show. Call 758-4972 or 993-1892 for more information.

importantly by aiding the members with cold drinks, food and dry clothing as they assist at the various disasters that have occurred in town.

The group is especially proud of the emergency committee that responds day or night with needed supplies. During storms they have also manned the kitchen facility at the Fire Station for department members and utility crews serving the town.

The monthly meetings are fun, educational and entertaining. For instance, some of this year's activities will be: a Texas BBQ, a folk art craft show, a cake decorating meeting, a floral arrangement session, and a Las Vegas night. The members represent a wide range of age and background. The common goal is to aid the department in their endeavors. If you would like more information, please call Cheryl Souza at 758-6276, Elaine Sylvia at 758-6548, or Gail Nicholson at 758-9064, or just attend one of the meetings. You're sure to enjoy yourself.

FISH Needs Volunteer Drivers

FISH of Mattapoisett, an organization of volunteers — neighbors helping neighbors — is in need of more drivers. The service offered is to provide transportation to any age person with no other means of getting to doctors, dentists, or hospital tests. Sixty-one rides were provided during one recent month. Now that the children are back in school, perhaps those who have not been able to help in the summer would be available now. There is no set obligation, drivers are free to choose the time and place as they wish.

Anyone willing to provide this much-needed and appreciated service can call the Council on Aging office at 758-4110 or Norma Holt at 758-4986.

there with good intentions who would really like to make a positive difference in helping wildlife, but who just don't know how to do it." Mr. Magee added that he volunteered to help raise funds for Ducks Unlimited because of the organization's impressive habitat record.

Since 1937, the private, non-profit organization has constructed more than 5,000 wetland conservation projects throughout Canada, the United States, and Mexico. These projects now provide 5.3 million acres of habitat for some 600 wildlife species, including waterfowl and endangered species like the whooping crane and bald eagle.

"Our committee will soon be calling on conservation-minded individuals within the community to help support our DU fundraising dinner scheduled for October 15 at the Seaport Inn in Fairhaven," he said. "We're going to have a lot of fine food, good prizes, an auction and plenty of fun for everyone. Those who attend can rest assured the dollars we raise are going to a very good cause."

A preview of the artwork and prizes for the auction and raffle will be held on October 13 from 6:00 to 9:00 pm at the Marion Art Center, Main Street in Marion. All are welcome and there is no

Services

Services on October 10 will be Holy Communion at 8:00 am and Morning Prayer at 10:00 am. There will be a Children's Chapel and the Adult Forum will continue with discussions on masculinity and femininity.

Three main subjects will be discussed — sexuality, racism and addiction. It is the hope that those who attend will be exposed to new ideas and opinions and thus be assisted in making responsible decisions regarding these issues.

The forum will meet each Sunday at 8:45 am in the library and the public is invited to attend. For further information you may call the church office at 748-1507. Guest speakers will lead the discussion and program each Sunday.

Eisteddfod Festival at UMass Dartmouth

The 22nd annual Eisteddfod Traditional Arts Festival at the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth will return on October 8-10 to showcase folk music from nearby and around the world. Among this year's offerings will be the Piedmont blues of Lynn and Turner Foddrell, Aine Minogue's Irish harp, the panpipes of Inca Son, Americana with Gordon Bok, the bluegrass of Dry Branch Fire Squad, blues with Elijah Walk, Bryan Bowers on autoharp, English a capella with Anni Fentiman and Dave Webber, a family concert with Sally Rogers and Howie Bursen, and a contradance with Kerry Elkin and friends.

New to the festival this year will be two mini-concerts for local talent, many of whom have grown up with the Eisteddfod as the wellspring for their love of traditional music. The local performers on Saturday are The Beans, Jan Canto Vinci, Peter Roy, Steve Lavalley, Mark Swab and Joe Fontaine, and Alex Elliott. Sunday's local talent includes Tesseract, John Bean, Bob Sanderson, Charlie Cover and Vic Wotherspoon.

URTICALCIN from Bioforce.

Because It's Not The Calcium Your Body Takes In, It's The Calcium Your Body Uses.

Millions of Americans are calcium deficient and don't know it. It shows up in many ways, weak brittle nails, tooth decay, fragile bones, susceptibility to colds and flu, allergies, recurring infections and cramps.

People who eat calcium rich food and take calcium supplements can still have calcium deficiency. The problem isn't the quantity of calcium in your diet, it's the ability of your body to use it. Urticalcin is a unique, homeopathic, calcium absorption formulation that helps your body assimilate the natural calcium found in foods. It also helps balance your body's calcium content to prevent painful and unsightly calcium deposits.

In 1991, AG, Roggwil, Switzerland, conducted a survey of the Urticalcin users. The results were so positive and so startling, we are proud to share them with you.
